The Max series has been developed for 3-7 year olds.

Max and his adventures are proof that fun, entertainment and education can be successfully combined into a unique experience.

- Educational content is conveyed to the user in an entertaining way.
- Text tables encourage early reading skills.
- Choice of languages lays a foundation for foreign language development.

Unhampered by time restraints and the pressure to achieve, the user can decide the course of the game. The picture world invites discovery and consciously borrows from the picture-book medium. Children can determine their own movements in this easily comprehensible world, bringing objects and characters to life with a single mouse click. They will also learn to concentrate on looking at pictures and animations as well as listening to music, noises and texts.

An additonal dynamic is achieved when the games are experienced in pairs or in a group. Once the game has been played, the children can build on their experiences in the form of role-playing, re-telling parts of the story, or drawing.

INSTALLATION

WINDOWS 3.x

It's very easy to play MAX on a Windows computer:

First-time use (with installation):

1. Select the "Run" command from the "File" menu in the Program Manager.
2. Type "x:\install.exe" into the dialogue box (replace "x" with the letter representing the CD-ROM drive.) The program symbols will be installed automatically.
3. Select the "Tivola" program group from the Program Manager and click on the icon "Max on the Moon" – that's it! Have fun playing!

Starting the program (after installation):

In the Program Manager, simply click on the "Max on the Moon" icon in the "Tivola" program group – and enjoy the game!

WINDOWS 95/WINDOWS 98/WINDOWS NT 4.0

Autostart

MACINTOSH

Just double-click on the Max icon and Max's exciting adventure with his friends on the moon will begin.

ON YOUR MARKS ...

Simply click on the alien you like best!
If you pick the same alien the next time you play, you can carry on from where you stopped last time.
If you choose another alien, you'll start the game again from the beginning.

This is Max from Newhoundland. He has already taken part in some very exciting adventures. Today he is flying to the moon to help his friend Mona find some moon chickens.

Uncle Pong is a great guy.
He has invented lots of useful things. Unfortunately, he is not terribly brave; he prefers eating cake. Uncle Pong is always very proud of Max.

Mona, the little space-woman, has flown to the moon. And now she desperately needs help finding eight moon chickens for the Man in the Moon.

Although the Man on the Moon always wears a pin-striped suit, he is not at all what one might call a gentleman. Unless you bring him eight moon chickens …

RULES OF THE GAME

Click once, and the picture of a bird-cage appears, showing you how many moon chickens you still need to find. Only once you have helped Max find all eight moon chickens can Mona and Max fly back to earth.

This is where the volume can be adjusted.

The shooting star can be squeezed smaller – and made bigger again.

You can change languages at any time here. Click once and the last sentence is repeated in the new language. You can easily learn a few new words by experiencing the story in another language.

Click here and you can go to the gallery and choose another picture. Just click on the waving hand to quit the game.

RULES OF THE GAME

Moon chickens are hidden all over the universe! And so it doesn't get boring, they are hidden in different places each time you play a new game. Fun surprises are hidden everywhere the Max symbol turns into a hand – just click!

The spiral turns when the narrator is reading.
Just click once to stop the text.
Click again and the narrator will continue reading.
If you wish to hear the text again, simply click on the spiral.
